

CLASSIFIED ADS

Black Angus male calves for sale, 6 weeks old, $20 each. Black Angus male calves with calves, pure bred Big type, 6-10 pound, some clever seed, different grades, prices right.

R. T. JAMERSON
Famplin, Va.

Lepus used for sale. Reclaimed 4-10 pound, some clever seed, different grades, prices right.

R. T. JAMERSON
Famplin, Va.

This is to serve notice that on January 28, 1941, we applied to the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board for a license to retail beer on and off premises.

Smith Brothers Service Sta.
Grover Smith
Burnett Smith

MONEY TO LEND on real estate in Appomattox and adjoining counties; first or second mortgage, easy terms of repayment. A. S. Novins, Nov. 608-609, P.O. Box 1, National Bank Bldg., Lynchburg, Va.

STEADY WORK—GOOD PAY
RELIABLE MAN WANTED to call on farmers in Appomattox County. No experience necessary. Write MESSER CO., Candor Bldg., Baltimore, Md.

NOTICE: See us quote you prices on your job printing. The Times-Virginian. (1/28/41)

"Buck-Passing" Is Natural
For Persons of All Ages

When a woman realizes that her next birthday will take her out of the youthful twenties, and make her 30 years old, she becomes jittery and fearful of entering this new decade. Vaguely, she worries lest she may have missed something important in life. She hungers for romance, fearing that old age may mean, upon her, when she erroneously believes romance cannot exist. When she is in danger of being taken for granted, she is in danger of being taken for granted. When she is in danger of being taken for granted, she is in danger of being taken for granted.

There is, moreover, an old saying that it takes a thief to catch a thief. This means, in substance, that guilty people tend to believe others are guilty. When a person begins to accuse others falsely and to excess, we often find such behavior is an evidence of "projection," or of blaming the other party for our own faults. When a child awkwardly strikes his shin against a chair, he doesn't blame himself, but growls angry at the chair, maybe giving it an additional kick for retaliation. Even adult men will throw a hammer on the floor when they have punched their thumb with it. In the army when the captain reprimands the lieutenant, the latter scolds the corporal, who then bawls out the private, who finally kicks the mule. This buck-passing is called "projection," meaning the act of blaming another person for our own sins or faults.

PETER B. PREVE

Footprints on Ceiling
Gabriel Galiano figures he's just as good as in the army now. He's 26, lives in San Francisco, and turns out his measurements. "You can't buy yourself a suit like Uncle Sam is taking his measurements!" Arguing along that line, he told his wife he didn't think he'd keep the suit made to order for him for $35. He wouldn't be needing it now, he said. The tailors felt differently about the work they had done and 34 inches in length. They are of a gigantic reptile with a stride of 10 feet 2 inches. "The great reptile which possessed this enormous walking stride, the longest on record had three toes and must have towered more than 30 feet in height," Irving C. Freeman, curator at the museum, explained.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF
VALUABLE REAL ESTATE AT PUBLIC AUCTION

By virtue of a deed of trust executed by Peyton W. Callahan and Louisa Callahan, dated March 12, 1935, and recorded in the Clerk's Office of the County of Appomattox, Virginia, in deed No. 34, at page 153, default having been made in the payment of the debt therein secured, and having been requested by the holder of the debt herein secured, I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, in front of the Farmers National Bank, Appomattox, Va., at 2 o'clock P. M., on

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1941

All of the following described property, to-wit:

All that certain tract or parcel of land, containing 200 acres, more or less, with the buildings and improvements thereon, and privileges and appurtenances thereto, including a 100-acre tract of land, situated in the County of Appomattox, Virginia, adjoining the lands of the estate of L. A. Williams and Others, and known as the old Thomas Farmer Mill tract, and the same land conveyed to the T. Lee and wife and The Farmers National Bank, by deed of recent date, and which will be recorded ahead of this deed or trust, together with reference is here made.

TERMS OF SALE: CASH.

GEORGE F. ABBETT, JR.,
TRUSTEE.

(1-23-41c)

Fruit Farm

PUBLIC AUCTION SALE

Of Valuable Orchard About 1.2 Miles from the Town of Appomattox, Virginia, known as the Clement Orchard Farm.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1941.

At 2 P. M. On the premises.

This Farm is situated about 1.2 miles North of Appomattox, Virginia, adjoining the lands of Mr. Pack, Luther Patterson and others, containing 37 acres of land by survey and known as the Clement Orchard Farm.

There are approximately 900 apple trees on this farm. It is well located and watered. There is a four room frame house on the farm in good condition. It is a short distance of hard surface road and abuts on good soil road.

Put can be seen at office of W. M. Abbitt, Appomattox, Virginia.

Terms of Sale: Cash.

J. E. DUNWIDIE,
Administrator of the Estate of A. H. Clement, with the will annexed.

(1-16-41c)

Notice: Let us furnish your next Robert Sharp, or add Times-Virginian.

1940 Plymouth Deluxe Sedan. Low mileage, good tires and heater.

1939 Plymouth Deluxe Coupe. Finish like new, good tires.

1939 Dodge Special Sedan. Excellent condition.

1938 Dodge Deluxe Sedan with radio and heater.

1937 Dodge Deluxe Coupe. Finish and upholstery like new.

1937 DeSoto Deluxe Sedan. New tires, radio and heater.

1937 Packard Sedan. Finish like new, radio and heater.

1935 Ford Deluxe Sedan. Motor just overhauled.

TRUCKS

1940 Dodge 1 ton with stake body, driven less than 3,000 miles.

1939 Dodge 1-2 ton pickup. Good tires, finish like new.

1939 Chevrolet 3-4 ton with stake body, new tires.

1937 Dodge long w.B. 1-2 ton with new 10 ply tires.

JOHN P. HUGHES MOTOR CO., INC.

Phone 2304 800 Commerce St.

Lynchburg, Va.

Simple Ways Suggested

To Prevent Nervousness

Learn to relax, both at work and during leisure hours. If you want to avoid the strain of nervousness, Leonard Allen, New York, advises. Here are a few simple suggestions:

At work avoid the strain of monotony and immobility; get up and stretch or walk about for a few moments each hour. Plan a complete break from activity sometime during the day.

Check up periodically to see whether your workday activities are all aimed directly at the attainment of your goal. Tolerate useless activities only as recreation. Keep away from unnecessary deadlines.

If you are a housewife, Mr. Allen suggests, "keep a chair or stool in the kitchen so that you may be seated while you work. Avoid body strain by wearing sensible shoes, not bedroom slippers. Eat at mealtime, and keep away from the kitchen between times. Set aside a regular rest period each day. Do not be excessively fussy about housework; strike a happy medium instead."

During your leisure, learn to forget your work entirely. Recreation should be a complete change of pace, and your leisure time should be a time when you are not thinking of your work.

It is wise to clutter your leisure time with useless activities. "People usually assume that vigorous recreation will naturally relieve the tension developed on their jobs, but this may not be true," the author says. "Unless rest is an immediate, new exertion will simply create a new strain and lead to a complete rest."

Wanted: Hot Flugelhorn Player. Must Be Good

The following classified ad appeared in a newspaper:

"MUSICIAN: hot flugelhorn player, must be able to take solos, swing blues. Apply W. H. Herman, Circle 1016."

It seemed like a good idea to find out what a flugelhorn was, nobody around the office knew, except perhaps H. A. S., whose day off it was. A call elicited the answer:

"A flugelhorn is a four-valved instrument, a little larger than a trumpet, but resembling a trumpet in size, shape, and form. Its pitch is between that of a trumpet and a trombone, and it is used in the same manner. The technical manipulation is that of a trumpet."

"The up action in the blowing of the instrument is somewhere between that of a trumpet and a trombone, and needs special adaptation. The instrument has a baritone voice."

The advertisement explained that it was one of the oldest brass instruments used by music before.

Mexican Indians Drink Pulque

The universal beverage of the Mexican Indians is pulque, a fermented product of the maguey, or agave plant, which is generally produced under the most appalling conditions. The maguey plant, says Weyl, another of Woodcock, N. Y., in a symposium on Latin American culture published by the Columbia University Press.

"The almost ubiquitous lack of sanitary drinking water has stimulated the pulque habit," according to Mr. Weyl, who reports that Cleopatra, the famous Egyptian queen, was a devotee of it. The maguey plant, he said, is a native of Mexico and is cultivated in many parts of the country. It is a small, bushy plant with long, narrow leaves. The juice of the leaves is fermented to produce pulque, which is then drunk. It is a very strong drink and is often used as a substitute for alcohol.

The Mexican Indian's diet, it is pointed out, is based on maize and beans. Chilli is introduced to stimulate the digestive juices, but it has a caustic effect on the stomach and intestines.

Irish Fought for Freedom

The Irish threw their fortunes, their spiritual energies, and themselves into the flaming cause of freedom. The spirit of '09 was an Irish spirit. Kneeling at the feet of independence.

Thirteen of the fifty-six signers of the deathless Declaration of Independence were Irish or descendants of Irish. The Irish were in the publishing realm before our government was wrought. Hugh Gane founded the Mercury in New York in 1775. John Dunlap published the first daily newspaper in Philadelphia. In that city Dunlap founded the first daily in Boston. In 1794 Matthew Carey, friend of Franklin, established the Pennsylvania Herald. Horace Greeley established and edited the New York Tribune.

He'll Take the Suit

Gabriel Galiano figures he's just as good as in the army now. He's 26, lives in San Francisco, and turns out his measurements. "You can't buy yourself a suit like Uncle Sam is taking his measurements!" Arguing along that line, he told his wife he didn't think he'd keep the suit made to order for him for $35. He wouldn't be needing it now, he said. The tailors felt differently about the work they had done and 34 inches in length. They are of a gigantic reptile with a stride of 10 feet 2 inches. "The great reptile which possessed this enormous walking stride, the longest on record had three toes and must have towered more than 30 feet in height," Irving C. Freeman, curator at the museum, explained.

Footprints on Ceiling

Gabriel Galiano figures he's just as good as in the army now. He's 26, lives in San Francisco, and turns out his measurements. "You can't buy yourself a suit like Uncle Sam is taking his measurements!" Arguing along that line, he told his wife he didn't think he'd keep the suit made to order for him for $35. He wouldn't be needing it now, he said. The tailors felt differently about the work they had done and 34 inches in length. They are of a gigantic reptile with a stride of 10 feet 2 inches. "The great reptile which possessed this enormous walking stride, the longest on record had three toes and must have towered more than 30 feet in height," Irving C. Freeman, curator at the museum, explained.

Business apparently was affected

by this labor trouble. There were no customers in evidence.

AMAZE A MINUTE

SCIENTIFACTS BY ARNOLD

But Scientific—WON'T SCIENCE

At work avoid the strain of monotony and immobility; get up and stretch or walk about for a few moments each hour. Plan a complete break from activity sometime during the day.

Check up periodically to see whether your workday activities are all aimed directly at the attainment of your goal. Tolerate useless activities only as recreation. Keep away from unnecessary deadlines.

If you are a housewife, Mr. Allen suggests, "keep a chair or stool in the kitchen so that you may be seated while you work. Avoid body strain by wearing sensible shoes, not bedroom slippers. Eat at mealtime, and keep away from the kitchen between times. Set aside a regular rest period each day. Do not be excessively fussy about housework; strike a happy medium instead."

During your leisure, learn to forget your work entirely. Recreation should be a complete change of pace, and your leisure time should be a time when you are not thinking of your work.

It is wise to clutter your leisure time with useless activities. "People usually assume that vigorous recreation will naturally relieve the tension developed on their jobs, but this may not be true," the author says. "Unless rest is an immediate, new exertion will simply create a new strain and lead to a complete rest."

Wanted: Hot Flugelhorn Player. Must Be Good

The following classified ad appeared in a newspaper:

"MUSICIAN: hot flugelhorn player, must be able to take solos, swing blues. Apply W. H. Herman, Circle 1016."

It seemed like a good idea to find out what a flugelhorn was, nobody around the office knew, except perhaps H. A. S., whose day off it was. A call elicited the answer:

"A flugelhorn is a four-valved instrument, a little larger than a trumpet, but resembling a trumpet in size, shape, and form. Its pitch is between that of a trumpet and a trombone, and it is used in the same manner. The technical manipulation is that of a trumpet."

"The up action in the blowing of the instrument is somewhere between that of a trumpet and a trombone, and needs special adaptation. The instrument has a baritone voice."

The advertisement explained that it was one of the oldest brass instruments used by music before.

Mexican Indians Drink Pulque

The universal beverage of the Mexican Indians is pulque, a fermented product of the maguey, or agave plant, which is generally produced under the most appalling conditions. The maguey plant, says Weyl, another of Woodcock, N. Y., in a symposium on Latin American culture published by the Columbia University Press.

"The almost ubiquitous lack of sanitary drinking water has stimulated the pulque habit," according to Mr. Weyl, who reports that Cleopatra, the famous Egyptian queen, was a devotee of it. The maguey plant, he said, is a native of Mexico and is cultivated in many parts of the country. It is a small, bushy plant with long, narrow leaves. The juice of the leaves is fermented to produce pulque, which is then drunk. It is a very strong drink and is often used as a substitute for alcohol.

The Mexican Indian's diet, it is pointed out, is based on maize and beans. Chilli is introduced to stimulate the digestive juices, but it has a caustic effect on the stomach and intestines.

Irish Fought for Freedom

The Irish threw their fortunes, their spiritual energies, and themselves into the flaming cause of freedom. The spirit of '09 was an Irish spirit. Kneeling at the feet of independence.

Thirteen of the fifty-six signers of the deathless Declaration of Independence were Irish or descendants of Irish. The Irish were in the publishing realm before our government was wrought. Hugh Gane founded the Mercury in New York in 1775. John Dunlap published the first daily newspaper in Philadelphia. In that city Dunlap founded the first daily in Boston. In 1794 Matthew Carey, friend of Franklin, established the Pennsylvania Herald. Horace Greeley established and edited the New York Tribune.

He'll Take the Suit

Gabriel Galiano figures he's just as good as in the army now. He's 26, lives in San Francisco, and turns out his measurements. "You can't buy yourself a suit like Uncle Sam is taking his measurements!" Arguing along that line, he told his wife he didn't think he'd keep the suit made to order for him for $35. He wouldn't be needing it now, he said. The tailors felt differently about the work they had done and 34 inches in length. They are of a gigantic reptile with a stride of 10 feet 2 inches. "The great reptile which possessed this enormous walking stride, the longest on record had three toes and must have towered more than 30 feet in height," Irving C. Freeman, curator at the museum, explained.

Footprints on Ceiling

Gabriel Galiano figures he's just as good as in the army now. He's 26, lives in San Francisco, and turns out his measurements. "You can't buy yourself a suit like Uncle Sam is taking his measurements!" Arguing along that line, he told his wife he didn't think he'd keep the suit made to order for him for $35. He wouldn't be needing it now, he said. The tailors felt differently about the work they had done and 34 inches in length. They are of a gigantic reptile with a stride of 10 feet 2 inches. "The great reptile which possessed this enormous walking stride, the longest on record had three toes and must have towered more than 30 feet in height," Irving C. Freeman, curator at the museum, explained.

Business apparently was affected

by this labor trouble. There were no customers in evidence.

AMAZE A MINUTE

SCIENTIFACTS BY ARNOLD

But Scientific—WON'T SCIENCE

At work avoid the strain of monotony and immobility; get up and stretch or walk about for a few moments each hour. Plan a complete break from activity sometime during the day.

Check up periodically to see whether your workday activities are all aimed directly at the attainment of your goal. Tolerate useless activities only as recreation. Keep away from unnecessary deadlines.

If you are a housewife, Mr. Allen suggests, "keep a chair or stool in the kitchen so that you may be seated while you work. Avoid body strain by wearing sensible shoes, not bedroom slippers. Eat at mealtime, and keep away from the kitchen between times. Set aside a regular rest period each day. Do not be excessively fussy about housework; strike a happy medium instead."

During your leisure, learn to forget your work entirely. Recreation should be a complete change of pace, and your leisure time should be a time when you are not thinking of your work.

It is wise to clutter your leisure time with useless activities. "People usually assume that vigorous recreation will naturally relieve the tension developed on their jobs, but this may not be true," the author says. "Unless rest is an immediate, new exertion will simply create a new strain and lead to a complete rest."

Wanted: Hot Flugelhorn Player. Must Be Good

The following classified ad appeared in a newspaper:

"MUSICIAN: hot flugelhorn player, must be able to take solos, swing blues. Apply W. H. Herman, Circle 1016."

It seemed like a good idea to find out what a flugelhorn was, nobody around the office knew, except perhaps H. A. S., whose day off it was. A call elicited the answer:

"A flugelhorn is a four-valved instrument, a little larger than a trumpet, but resembling a trumpet in size, shape, and form. Its pitch is between that of a trumpet and a trombone, and it is used in the same manner. The technical manipulation is that of a trumpet."

"The up action in the blowing of the instrument is somewhere between that of a trumpet and a trombone, and needs special adaptation. The instrument has a baritone voice."

The advertisement explained that it was one of the oldest brass instruments used by music before.

Mexican Indians Drink Pulque

The universal beverage of the Mexican Indians is pulque, a fermented product of the maguey, or agave plant, which is generally produced under the most appalling conditions. The maguey plant, says Weyl, another of Woodcock, N. Y., in a symposium on Latin American culture published by the Columbia University Press.

"The almost ubiquitous lack of sanitary drinking water has stimulated the pulque habit," according to Mr. Weyl, who reports that Cleopatra, the famous Egyptian queen, was a devotee of it. The maguey plant, he said, is a native of Mexico and is cultivated in many parts of the country. It is a small, bushy plant with long, narrow leaves. The juice of the leaves is fermented to produce pulque, which is then drunk. It is a very strong drink and is often used as a substitute for alcohol.

The Mexican Indian's diet, it is pointed out, is based on maize and beans. Chilli is introduced to stimulate the digestive juices, but it has a caustic effect on the stomach and intestines.

Irish Fought for Freedom

The Irish threw their fortunes, their spiritual energies, and themselves into the flaming cause of freedom. The spirit of '09 was an Irish spirit. Kneeling at the feet of independence.

Thirteen of the fifty-six signers of the deathless Declaration of Independence were Irish or descendants of Irish. The Irish were in the publishing realm before our government was wrought. Hugh Gane founded the Mercury in New York in 1775. John Dunlap published the first daily newspaper in Philadelphia. In that city Dunlap founded the first daily in Boston. In 1794 Matthew Carey, friend of Franklin, established the Pennsylvania Herald. Horace Greeley established and edited the New York Tribune.

He'll Take the Suit

Gabriel Galiano figures he's just as good as in the army now. He's 26, lives in San Francisco, and turns out his measurements. "You can't buy yourself a suit like Uncle Sam is taking his measurements!" Arguing along that line, he told his wife he didn't think he'd keep the suit made to order for him for $35. He wouldn't be needing it now, he said. The tailors felt differently about the work they had done and 34 inches in length. They are of a gigantic reptile with a stride of 10 feet 2 inches. "The great reptile which possessed this enormous walking stride, the longest on record had three toes and must have towered more than 30 feet in height," Irving C. Freeman, curator at the museum, explained.

Footprints on Ceiling

Gabriel Galiano figures he's just as good as in the army now. He's 26, lives in San Francisco, and turns out his measurements. "You can't buy yourself a suit like Uncle Sam is taking his measurements!" Arguing along that line, he told his wife he didn't think he'd keep the suit made to order for him for $35. He wouldn't be needing it now, he said. The tailors felt differently about the work they had done and 34 inches in length. They are of a gigantic reptile with a stride of 10 feet 2 inches. "The great reptile which possessed this enormous walking stride, the longest on record had three toes and must have towered more than 30 feet in height," Irving C. Freeman, curator at the museum, explained.

Business apparently was affected

by this labor trouble. There were no customers in evidence.

AMAZE A MINUTE

SCIENTIFACTS BY ARNOLD

But Scientific—WON'T SCIENCE

At work avoid the strain of monotony and immobility; get up and stretch or walk about for a few moments each hour. Plan a complete break from activity sometime during the day.

Check up periodically to see whether your workday activities are all aimed directly at the attainment of your goal. Tolerate useless activities only as recreation. Keep away from unnecessary deadlines.

If you are a housewife, Mr. Allen suggests, "keep a chair or stool in the kitchen so that you may be seated while you work. Avoid body strain by wearing sensible shoes, not bedroom slippers. Eat at mealtime, and keep away from the kitchen between times. Set aside a regular rest period each day. Do not be excessively fussy about housework; strike a happy medium instead."

During your leisure, learn to forget your work entirely. Recreation should be a complete change of pace, and your leisure time should be a time when you are not thinking of your work.

It is wise to clutter your leisure time with useless activities. "People usually assume that vigorous recreation will naturally relieve the tension developed on their jobs, but this may not be true," the author says. "Unless rest is an immediate, new exertion will simply create a new strain and lead to a complete rest."

Wanted: Hot Flugelhorn Player. Must Be Good

The following classified ad appeared in a newspaper:

"MUSICIAN: hot flugelhorn player, must be able to take solos, swing blues. Apply W. H. Herman, Circle 1016."

It seemed like a good idea to find out what a flugelhorn was, nobody around the office knew, except perhaps H. A. S., whose day off it was. A call elicited the answer:

"A flugelhorn is a four-valved instrument, a little larger than a trumpet, but resembling a trumpet in size, shape, and form. Its pitch is between that of a trumpet and a trombone, and it is used in the same manner. The technical manipulation is that of a trumpet."

"The up action in the blowing of the instrument is somewhere between that of a trumpet and a trombone, and needs special adaptation. The instrument has a baritone voice."

The advertisement explained that it was one of the oldest brass instruments used by music before.

Mexican Indians Drink Pulque

The universal beverage of the Mexican Indians is pulque, a fermented product of the maguey, or agave plant, which is generally produced under the most appalling conditions. The maguey plant, says Weyl, another of Woodcock, N. Y., in a symposium on Latin American culture published by the Columbia University Press.

"The almost ubiquitous lack of sanitary drinking water has stimulated the pulque habit," according to Mr. Weyl, who reports that Cleopatra, the famous Egyptian queen, was a devotee of it. The maguey plant, he said, is a native of Mexico and is cultivated in many parts of the country. It is a small, bushy plant with long, narrow leaves. The juice of the leaves is fermented to produce pulque, which is then drunk. It is a very strong drink and is often used as a substitute for alcohol.

The Mexican Indian's diet, it is pointed out, is based on maize and beans. Chilli is introduced to stimulate the digestive juices, but it has a caustic effect on the stomach and intestines.

Irish Fought for Freedom

The Irish threw their fortunes, their spiritual energies, and themselves into the flaming cause of freedom. The spirit of '09 was an Irish spirit. Kneeling at the feet of independence.

Thirteen of the fifty-six signers of the deathless Declaration of Independence were Irish or descendants of Irish. The Irish were in the publishing realm before our government was wrought. Hugh Gane founded the Mercury in New York in 1775. John Dunlap published the first daily newspaper in Philadelphia. In that city Dunlap founded the first daily in Boston. In 1794 Matthew Carey, friend of Franklin, established the Pennsylvania Herald. Horace Greeley established and edited the New York Tribune.

He'll Take the Suit

G